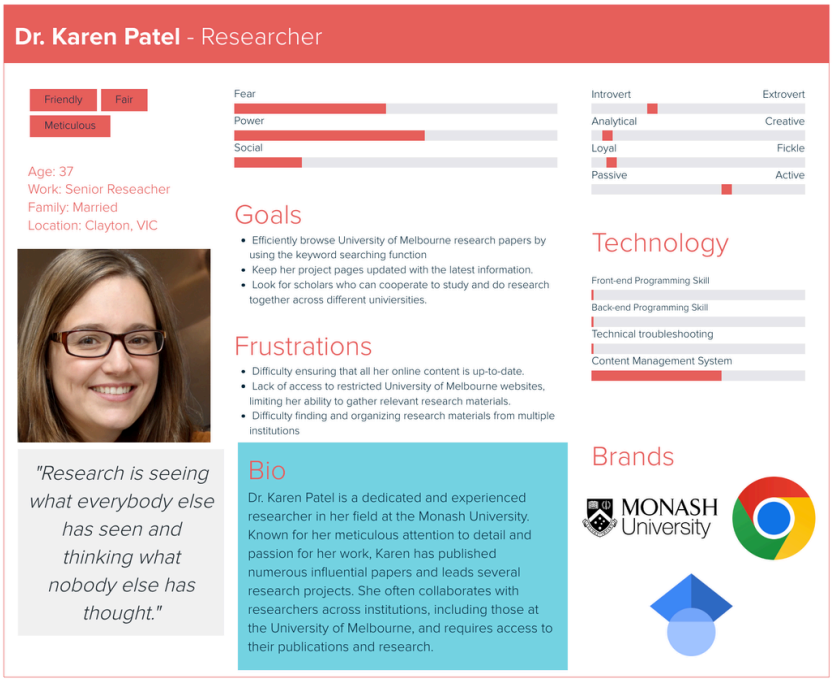
Personas

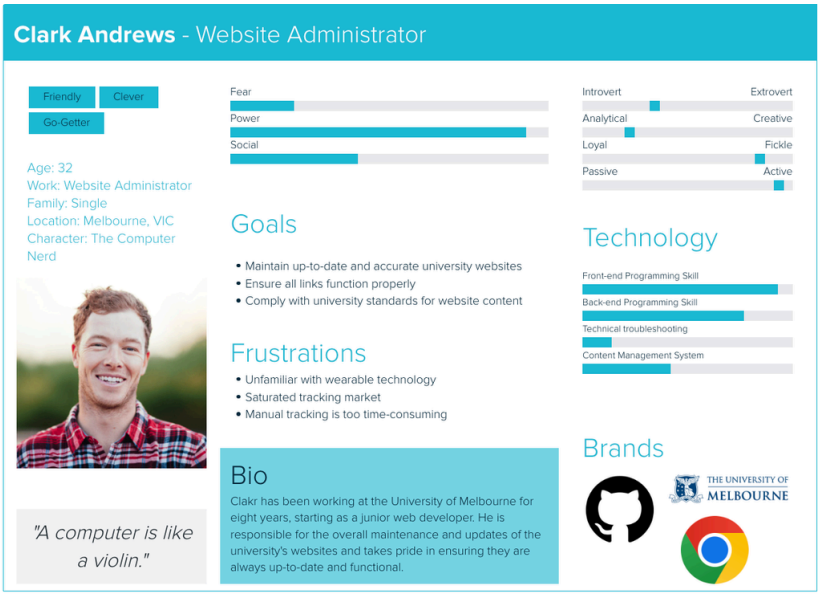
Personas:

Personas are carefully crafted profiles that symbolise the key characteristics of various user groups of a product. They provide insights into the product's user base, guide the decision-making process, and ensure that design choices align with user expectations and improve user experience.

The following persona is for a researcher from Monash University:



The following persona is for a website admin from unimelb:



The following persona is for a research administrator from unimelb: